WEATHER PROGNOSTICS.—For this section, light and variable; cooler; light, except on the coast; fresh to brisk westerly winds.

THE BACKHAM CASE.—The case of J. Thomas Backham, Jr., charged with breaking into the store of Casser A. Scott one night in the summer of 1899, came up in the Corporation Court this morning before Judge Norton. The defense was represented by Mr. S. G. P. West, while Commonwealth's Attorney, Henry H. Jones, represented the prosecution. The jury were Messrs. Jas. E. Johnston, Wm. E. Thos., J. E. Edlin, P. W. Campbell, D. Harry Appich, Harry Hambleton, L. McK. Bell, Samuel E. Jones, A. A. Warfield and Wm. R. Scott.

The first witness called was Chester A. Scott, proprietor of the store. He testified that on the night of the alleged breaking in he was awakened at about 12 o'clock at his boarding house by a policeman and informed that his store had been broken open. He immediately proceeded to his store and found the door broken on the front door on the side, but did not miss anything. He stated that Mr. Backham and himself were considering the matter of going into partnership.

After the witness had given his statement, Mr. Backham took the stand and testified that about 3 o'clock on the night of the alleged breaking in he had been summoned from the Otero House, where a show was in progress, by a man who he said was a friend of his and who he said had been with him at the Otero House. He testified that he had been with him at the Otero House and that he had been with him at the Otero House and that he had been with him at the Otero House.

After instructions by the court the jury was given to retire until 11 o'clock and they failing to agree by 1 o'clock took a recess till 3 o'clock. At 4 o'clock the jury returned a verdict of guilty and fixed the punishment at three months in jail.

THE VALUE OF STATISTICS.—Some of the statistics of the year 1900 in our localities referred to what appeared as an unusually large death rate. This was based upon the fact that the number of deaths was well known in this city and at about the same time and was subsequently shown to be erroneous, the rate being less at that period than at corresponding periods of years prior. On Friday last, the 12th inst., Mr. Marvin Demaine, West of the Auditor's office for the purpose of procuring a burial permit, and he stated that it appeared to him that "large" deaths had occurred in 1900.

After the remark suggested an examination of the record with the result that the oft quoted "truth" is stronger than the "fiction" and was verified by the permit handled Mr. Demaine was $10, 320 and the same number was issued on the 13th day of October, 1899. This record of deaths occurring in the city, &c., has been for since January 1, 1891, and is referred to frequently in insurance, pension and other cases. Even so serious a subject as deaths at times has humorous features, and this was illustrated yesterday, when two of our undertakers were waiting for two burial permits for interment that had occurred on Saturday and Sunday, the undertakers being unable to see the physicians who always issue the death certificate. As these were not exceptional cases, the Auditor thought it not worth while to issue a permit for an interment made days before, and at the same time discourage a custom which he had acquiesced in to waive, if possible, any unnecessary trouble to a physician and funeral director.

AN UNEXPECTED "BITE".—Mr. E. E. Fleming, tempted by the narrative of certain disciples of Isaac Walton concerning the biting propensities of black bass, which are now plentiful in the river, yesterday rigged a twenty-foot rod, procured some minnows and waited a secluded spot on the electric railway bridge across Hunting creek and prepared himself to pull in all the fish of the river tribe that should come his way. He had average luck, catching several good-sized ringed bass, first cousins of bass, and was in the act of attaching a minnow to his hook when a train started across the bridge. Several feet of Mr. Fleming's rod had passed under his arm and were protruding over the railroad track when the train started across the bridge and the cars thundered past the bridge and the rod and the minnow were carried off by the train.

In this event the case may not be reached by the higher court for over a year and in the meantime Mr. Price may continue to serve as commissioner.

PAPER WALLS AT INDIAN HEAD.—In order to minimize the destructive effects of possible explosions in the government's new powder manufactory at Indian Head, below this city, all the buildings are provided with "paper" walls at the ends. The theory is that these light walls will be immediately blown aside by the concussion of the explosion, leaving the main walls, which are built as strongly as possible, practically unharmed.

PEOPLE READ ADVERTISEMENTS.—That people read newspaper advertisements was demonstrated recently in Boston. A small advertisement of a place for a bookkeeper was placed by design in an obscure part of the newspaper, away from the classified "ads," and without a head; yet before noon of the day of publication, there were fifteen answers. Since that number of bookkeepers in want of a place discovered the advertisement, a large number of other readers must have seen it, as there was nothing to direct the attention of any particular persons to it.
